

Birders and fans of the Park!

See VCU scientists in action as they capture and band Prothonotary Warblers in the James River Park System and track the birds' movements between their breeding grounds in Virginia and wintering grounds in Latin America. The researchers will also discuss the role of differing wetland habitats in the warbler life cycle, from riparian forests in Richmond to mangrove forests in Colombia.

When: Wednesday, May 25

Time: 8:00am

Location: Wetlands entrance

3401 Landria Dr.

Richmond VA 23225